1 Senator Tower. Mr. Angleton, I understand that you came
2 on very short notice. And I appreciate your accommodating
3 the Committee.

4 You will have to be sworn.

5 Would you rise, please, and raise your right hand?

6 Do you solemnly swear that the testimony you are about 7 to give before this committee is the truth, the whole truth and 8 nothing but the truth, so help you God?

9 Mr. Angleton. I do.

10 Senator Tower. Counsel, you may proceed.

11 TESTIMONY OF JAMES ANGLETON

12 Mr. Schwarz. I would like to first get your name and 13 address on the record.

14 Mr. Angleton. James Angleton, Arlington, Virginia.

15 Mr. Schwarz. Just some procedural matters. You have a 16 right to counsel, you understand that?

17 Mr. Angleton. Yes, I understand it.

18 Mr. Schwarz. And if at any time you want to stop to ob-
19 tain counsel you have a right to do that. And if you wish
20 to claim any of your Constitutional rights you have a right
21 to do that, you understand those things also, do you?

22 Mr. Angleton. Yes, I understand them.

23 Mr. Schwarz. You were employed at the CIA for what 24 period of time?

25 Mr. Angleton. From the beginning until December, the 2 Mr. Schwarz. 1974?

3 Mr. Angleton. 1974.

4 Mr. Schwarz. And were you the Chief of Counterintelligence
5 at the CIA for that period?

6 Mr. Angleton. I was.

7 Mr. Schwarz. For that entire period of time?

8 Mr. Angleton. No, from 1954.

9 Mr. Schwarz. [Redacted]
10 [Redacted]

11 Mr. Angleton. That is correct.

12 Mr. Schwarz. Can you briefly state the connection, if any,
13 between your counter intelligence work and [Redacted]
14 or put even more generally, how did you happen to have both 15 those jobs?

16 Mr. Angleton. Well, if I could ask you some clarifica-17 tion, are we addressing ourselves here in terms of 18 this meeting to the Szulc business, or are we trying to take 19 up everything?

20 Mr. Schwarz. No, we are not going to try to take up 21 everything. We may try to take up a few things beyond the 22 Szulc business. What we are trying to do --

23 Mr. Angleton. I can direct my answers to you better
24 if I know more where we are going.

25 Mr. Schwarz. We are going to the Szulc business, but it

1 it would be helpful to have a few background first.

2 Senator Baker. If I may say so, so that Mr. Angleton
3 will not be taken by surprise, there are one or two things that 4 I would like to discuss. The nature of that material would be
5 similar to what you have already discussed with Rockefeller,
6 having to do with the Oswald situation and other things.

7 Mr. Angleton. Well, to begin with, I went into OSS in 8 1943, in 1943 from the infantry. And then I was assigned to an 9 embryonic counter intelligence unit under General
10 Donovan. My immediate chief was James R. Murphy, who had been 11 a protegee and obtained his law degree in General Donovan's
12 office. And he is a practicing attorney here in Washington.
13 And he was Chief of X-2, which was the counter intelligence.
14 And during that time a number of us were put together who 15 had never had any experience in the subject. And that included
16 people such as Jonnie Oaks, who was the head of the editorial
17 page of the New York Times, and Ben Wells, and a tremendous 18 cross-section of American life.

19 And there was a training intensive in this country, and 20 I was sent to London. And the purpose of that was to ab-
21 sorb the British experience, and more important, the breaking 22 of German codes.

23 The breaking of the German codes, which is relevant to 24 our activity, was really done in England. And by way of 25 digression, the Germans were using a receiver machine called

1 Enigma, the blue prints of which were originally obtained by 2 a Frenchman. And I might add that the Frenchman never re-
3 ceived credit for it. And yet that perhaps was the most 4 single important breakthrough of the entire war. And he had 5 obtained it about eight to nine or ten years prior to the out-
6 break of war, when it was non-operative. And he had the 7 prescience to know that the systems could only be one thing,
8 that it would be operative in a time of war.

9 I give this digression simply to point out that the 10 fruits of that breakthrough would first go to the military 11 and the military operations. And the counter intelligence 12 use of it would be the bottom of the list of priorities, in 13 one sense.

14 But it would mean that a compromise of the material
15 in any fashion to the Germans would destroy the military 16 uses. And during the war or when the Germans went into the 17 war, they brought it up from 10 percent recovery to about 18 100 percent.

19 And I believe it was in the neighborhood of some 22,000
20 operational messages from the German high command. I know
21 the Battle of Tobruk was fought on six intercepts.

22 So our job was to make use of the counter intelligence
23 for the purpose of playing back German agents to their high 24 command. And this was an elaborate deception. And when the 25 war ended I would say that 99 percent of all reporting agents

1 that the Germans had were under our control. And in fact
 2 when many of the German hierarchy tried to escape to the 3 west under aliases, their only point of contact for most 4 documentation and money was to our agent under control.
 5 And it was called the Safe Haven program.

6 So London was in a sense a staging area with full access
 7 to British, or the fruits of British activity, going back
 8 through their entire history. And it was the advance head-
 9 quarters for General Donovan, and Mr. Murphy.

10 I was then sent to Italy in 1943. And I took over the 11 counter intelligence for Italy, the OSS, AFHQ, Allied Forces
 12 Headquarters.

13 Subsequently I became the Chief of OSS Italy. And 14 I want to say that my work then became more broad in terms of 15 espionage and all the other branches of OSS. And I re-estab-16 lished the counter intelligence services. And I brought the 17 French back into existence, particularly the man who 18 originally acquired the code, and who worked on it for many 19 years. And by this time it was shifted to the [redacted]

20 I left Italy in 1947 or 1948 and came back, and was 21 discharged and went into the Agency immediately. And during 22 the period I was in the Agency, of course, I had both agent
 23 operations, long distance operations, and counter intelligence, 24 and some sabotage, black propaganda, infiltration.

25 And probably the first overnight operation that there was.

1 which was known as Plan Hope, which is simply putting the 2 Italians in an airplane and having them fly over to the 3 Roumanian border and make very primitive photographs of the 4 whole region.

5 And I was sent back to the Air Force. And then I had 6 code operations, embassy penetrations, and so on.

7 So, in a sense the resuscitation of the Italian service,
8 Army and Navy, Air Force, and the Minister of the Interior, 9 was American rehabilitation. And I am not going to go into 10 the details of the political situation. There was the 11 civil war in Greece, and the revival of the international 12 Brigade and in fact the Soviets had built up, when they were 13 not fighting the war, in the post-war period, assassinations, 14 and instability.

15 And throughout this we had very close supervision from 16 Mr. Murphy, and General Donovan. And we had special interest 17 in [redacted] and what was happening in Berlin behind the 18 Curtain.

19 And the then acting Secretary of State for [redacted]

20 [redacted] And so there was much
21 to do through our channels, and General Donovan, with [redacted]

22 [redacted] one of the basic problems was 23 the cold war. We did not buy the cold war, it came to us 24 and we worked with the Germans, and as we broke down the 25 opposition, we began to find that we were not getting the

1 Germans, we were getting the Soviets.

3 But the penetrations and the operations which we ran 4 during the military phase began to take on a character of 5 their own in the civilian phase in the very long term Soviet 6 objectives against the U.S. in particular, and against the 7 allies.

8 And then I got into all fields of labor, subversion,
9 illegal immigrants, and then revolution. I was in [redacted]

10 And our penetrations at that period were fairly high level and 11 sophisticated, because of the reaction to Stalin.

12 And as the Soviet troops occupied new territories, it
13 was faced with these ambiguities, the defectors coming 14 over to us at very high levels.

15 And in the course of this, of course, was the Israeli 16 immigration. Technically we were still a part of AFHQ, which 17 was a combined and Allied Headquarters. And the [redacted] 18 were that our activities be directed in supporting their 19 responsibilities in the Middle East, and, therefore, to pre-20 vent the immigration.

21 And I think the only policy cable that was ever re-22 ceived during that period was one we sent to Mr. Murphy, and 23 through General Donovan to the President. That 24 was where we exercised our influences on the Italians to 25 prevent immigration. And they addressed themselves to this issue, and they came back with an ambiguity, but it leaned

1 toward the general proposition that we should not 2 discourage the British nor hurt the British directly but 3 we should not interfere with the Italians to support the 4 British position.

5 And so my dealings were with Admiral Maugeria, who 6 had been Chief of the Italian Naval Intelligence, but was 7 then the Commanding Admiral of the Turanian Fleet generally
8 south, where all these illegal immigrants collected and were 9 sent down.

10 And then they blew up the Irgum, and blew up the British 11 embassy in Rome, who were my opposite numbers. And the man
12 with whom we had set up as the [redacted] through 13 the rest of the [redacted] -- we had the members of the 14 group, and then we had the dilemma again as to whether we 15 turned them over to the [redacted] authorities, and so on.

16 And we were in a position to make decisions one way or 17 the other. And eventually we came down on the side of re-
18 leasing them.

19 And there is so much more of it. I am trying to keep 20 the thread of it.

21 Mr. schwarz. So you developed some kind of a relation-
22 ship, perhaps a friendly relationship, with persons connected 23 with the [redacted] or the hoped-for state of 24 [redacted] back in the 1940's?

1 Mr. Schwarz. And was there any other significant reason
2 why you kept the [] account, if that is the right ex-
3 pression?

4 Mr. Angleton. There wasn't one after I left there,
5 nor was there one here in Washington.

6 But the other side of the [] problem was that you
7 had thousands coming from the Soviet Union. And you had the 8 Soviets making use of the immigration for the purpose of 9 sending illegal agents into the West, and breaking down all 10 the travel control, identifications and so on.

11 And so there was both a security problem and a political 12 problem. And one of my men married, I might say, the head of 13 the Zionist movement in Italy, the underground. So I had 14 a connection to this man. He was very important.

15 So, coming back to Washington, I was Special Assistant 16 to Colonel Donald H. Galloway, who was head of the 17 clandestine side and covered the world, on all sides of 18 clandestine activity.

19 And subsequently I was Chief of Operations for Es-
20 plionage.

21 And in 1954 I had a special operational unit, and was 22 made head of the counter intelligence.

23 Mr. Schwarz. In the period beginning in 1954 and lasting

21 Mr. Angleton. It was negotiated by finding what 22 dis we have in common. It was reviewed by Admiral Hillenkoetter, 23 who was then Director. And he was to be succeeded by General 24 Walter Bedell Smith. And the decision was made during the 6 Mr. Angleton. In most simplistic terms, they were in-

7 formed that we would not work with them against the Arabs,
8 that we would work with them on Soviet intelligence and 9 Soviet bloc intelligence and Communism, where it existed.

10 Mr. Schwarz. Did that agreement -- which I take it was 11 more flexible than -- but did it remain in effect throughout 12 the period of your service with the Agency?

13 Mr. Angleton. More or less.

14 Mr. Miller. Was this agreement in the form of a 15 paper?

16 Mr. Angleton. Paper and operations, discussion.

17 Mr. Miller. And under whose authority was the agree-
18 ment made?

19 Mr. Angleton. Under the authority of the Director of 20 Central Intelligence, and the [redacted] on 21 the other side.

3 Mr. Miller. So the Director of Central Intelligence was 4 aware of the agreement. Was the President?

5 Mr. Angleton. The President was aware of it. And the 6 Secretary of State was the brother of the Deputy Chief of the 7 CIA, and eventually was very much involved.

8 Mr. Miller. Where is a record of this agreement kept,
9 as an instrument of the U.S.?

10 Mr. Angleton. The internal papers would be in the Agency.
11 The letters, copies of the letters from [Redacted] to the 12 President or to the Secretary of State I assume are still in 13 the Agency. I dealt with other departments in connection
14 with Africa, and so on, underdeveloped areas.

15 If you are speaking as to whether there was a representa-
16 tive treaty which was cleared -- and people wanted these 17 things cleared -- I don't think there were any clearances
18 obtained from the Hill.

19 Mr. Miller. Was it regarded as an obligation or a 20 commitment from the U.S. to [Redacted] on certain matters?

21 Mr. Angleton. When you use the word U.S. while you 22 may use it as contracting officers and all that, there was 23 very little reduced to writing. And it is a custom of 24 intelligence that intelligence supersedes writing. And 25 there have been very few directors to my knowledge that would

1 put their pen to hand to sign an agreement to some under-
2 standing. It is based on a fiduciary relationship and common
3 understanding.

4 So, these were all understandings that were 5 generated by events. WE had the arrest of the nine doctors,
6 and the pogrom in Russia. And obviously you didn't go through 7 a lot of bureaucracy, it was there for everyone to see.
8 And it had a direct impact on the question of immigration of 9 agents, and everything else that goes along with it. And 10 I think that characterizes any good operation.

11 Mr. Miller. How was it possible for succeeding directors 12 of the intelligence agency to understand what the 13 agreements were between, in this case the [redacted]
14 [redacted] and the U.S. Intelligence Service?

15 Mr. Angleton. Very simple. They saw the production to 16 begin with. And they met with directors or the head of 17 [redacted] And they met with Ambassadors and prime 18 ministers. And they were very much involved.

19 Mr. Schwarz. Just one more background question and 20 then we will turn to the principle subject.

21 Following through on the subject of [redacted] up to your 22 departure in 1974, is there any connection between your de-23 parture and handling of [redacted] And if there is, what is

1 commission -- I don't know how wisely. You can always get
 2 different information from different people. But Colby
 3 told them, so I would like to give him the benefits of the 4 doubt on it. But over a period of time Colby who is not my 5 cup of tea professionally or in any other way, and in my 6 view is on the negative side of life -- and Dr. Schlesinger,
 7 before he went to Defense, said that Colby was the only other 8 person on Watergate. So you have got certain persons who 9 were prominent. And there was the negative aspect of 10 self-inspection, and inferiors reporting on superiors, until 11 they came through the snake pit.

12 And in the course of all of this there was time when 13 he assumed the authority, and in total contrast to Schlesinger, 14 he began to regard the [redacted] as some-15 thing where we had to open the windows and let the air in.
 16 And he used phrases such as, we must help out Henry and a few 17 other things.

18 Any position was that it was a political relationship, 19 and that we were not bound, or should not be bound, to using 20 the Agency on tactical ventures when we had relationships
 21 which had strategic implications.

22 But one must remember that there are still [redacted]
 23 [redacted] in the Soviet Union. And the relationship is the 24 only place where you do it with high level agencies who work
 25 for ideology and do not work for money. So it is unique.

1 And my second point was that everything should be run
2 on the grounds of need-to-know, and should not go into the Arab
3 Division until there was peace in the area. There was no
4 identity of interest or fundamental interest between 5 and an example is

7 And the Soviets had worked with 8 the Poles in the West, and trained them in Moscow, where you
9 had the cohesion of 27 bloc services working together through

12 And most important, our job was to preserve the inte-
13 grity of the immigration from the bloc, because the problem
14 of escape to Israel is a religious problem, it is not a 15 political problem. There could not be a prime minister who 16 would survive the day if he did not go along with the idea of 17 the return.

18 And, therefore, there is a certain kind of parallelism,
19 you might say, between handling the communications intelligence 20 during the war and where a low priority makes use of it and 21 endangers the whole with the question of immigration,
22 where the fruits of that immigration come to this government.

(Recess.)

Mr. Schwarz. You were in the middle of an answer, I believe.
Mr. Angleton. What I am trying to say is that immigration is a source of very high level information, and it is very comparable with its problems as communications intelligence during the war when the lives of men were involved in troop movements.

And, therefore, the idea of opening up the doors and things, and so on, to me seemed absolutely contrary to the spirit, and what had been going on for 22 years.

And during that time we had obtained, for example, by way of production, Khrushchev's secret speech which practically created revolutions in Hungary and Poland.

I was just simply reiterating the problem of the immigration. This idea of opening the doors and letting the light in, and breaking down compartmentation, and breaking down the need to know, would inevitably put in jeopardy the immigration, if the Soviets should learn the extent of the activities.

Now, the production ran from everything, such as the secret speech of Khrushchev's against Stalin, it ran into the first hard information on nuclear explosives, and it ran into practically the whole gamut. And I think in a certain period of time it resulted in over 22,000 reports dealing with the Soviet bloc which were unique. And much of this

1 came from, say, an engineer that had a factory, or what not,
2 in other words, it had a very direct bearing on our own
3 R&D and our own defense budget.

4 Now, our own way of handling it was to give false
5 attribution, reports, so that if the report was ever compro-
6 mised, it would not compromise the operations, or the immi-
7 gration. And, therefore, that was one of the issues.

8 On the other issue was that to politicize the Agency,
9 as I stated, on the tactical problems, which are going to 10 be with us for a long time.

11 And to break down the fiduciary relationship-- which is 12 after all a personal business -- all the men I have had were 13 men who stayed in it and came back to headquarters and went back 14 to [redacted] they went to the National Security Council, and 15 went back to [redacted] et cetera, a small group of men. It 16 was probably the most economical operation that has ever been 17 devised in the U.S. Government. I don't think there was more 18 than 10 people that were hired in the same process.

19 I started from the south side with two [redacted] men who 20 worked with me during the war. He sent them over as ordinary 21 people under cover to establish the working hours of things,
22 and I brought over six others and put them through some months

1 For example, we had certain political overtones where 2 we were used in an affirmative way under President Eisenhower.
 3 He wanted to make a real attempt to see if there could ever
 4 be a peace in the Middle East. And with Alan Dulles, his 5 brothers, and myself, and Kermit Roosevelt, we put up a plan
 6 to bringing in Robert B. Anderson, who had been Assistant

4 Mr. Miller. Can you think of any?

5 Mr. Angleton. You are the one who is posing it. I think

10 Senator Mathias. May I suggest Suez as a conflict that 11 might have posed --

12 Mr. Angleton. Which Suez are we talking about?

13 Senator Mathias. The Israeli-British-French attack on Suez.

14 Mr. Angleton. The U.S. Government position was that we 15 had no commitments with Israel and we had no binding treaties.
16 We had two allies that had just fought a war with us, and 17 both of whom betrayed us. And Eden's head went with it. And that 18 is very clear and well documented. The Israelis were not 19 blamed because we didn't have any agreements with them, they 20 had violated no agreements. The British had agreements.
21 The British tried to give us a deception plan, should they

3 That is a point at which the U.S. policy differed from 10 Mr. Angleton. The only thing that came up is that when 11 I saw Colby yesterday -- which is the first time since 12 December -- he told me that he had bought a theory of mine on 13 Szulc, but he did not look with any misgivings on Hersh. He Senator Tower. You raised the question but did not answer it.

How do you think he could have known it?

Mr. Angleton. This is what bothers me, that he is either unwitting, or has a source who has knowledge and is working for an opposition, or he has a source who is mischievously exploiting him by, who may be retired, and does know some facts, and therefore it is 10 percent true and 90 percent false.

I would assume his financial situation is such that he is very hungry. I mean that is my general observation, and that he is having a rough time of saving a very lucrative contract with Penthouse for supplying X number of articles. I mean, that is my general feeling.

Senator Tower. Let's go back a moment. You say that he could have come by knowledge of the Mann-Burgess-Philby relationship through an external source?

1 Mr Angleton. Yes, either witting or unwitting.

2 Senator Tower. The KBG knows this, and, therefore, it

3 could have come directly or indirectly from that source?

4 Mr. Angleton. That is right.

5 Senator Tower. That is a possibility?

6 Mr. Angleton. That is a possibility. And he has some

7 brains about the fact that he does have contacts -- he knows

8 the Roumanian Ambassador better than anybody in Washington,

9 and he knows the Poles, and he knows this. And it goes on 10 and on.

11 So, he is dealing with bloc people who will be reporting

12 back to their headquarters very detailed -- assuming he is

13 totally innocent, and given his position in Washington,

14 Szulc would be a normal, witting or unwitting, channel for 15 them in disinformation and for any other motive.

16 So, as to whether he is himself knowing what he is 17 doing, whether he is a dupe, is an outstanding question.

18 But for a man who goes and socializes with the black --

19 Mr. Schwarz. Did Mr. Szulc ever work for the Central

1. Mr. Angleton. I have heard that, but I haven't looked at 2 the dossier for the last ten years. He came to our attention
3 basically in connection with the leaks in the Bay of Pigs.

4 Senator Tower. Will you go back to the Szulc-Wells-
5 Angleton meeting?

6 Mr. Angleton. This basically -- the thing that began to 7 really disturb me was, number one, his comment, as I said before,
8 that Hersh told him that the thing that really bothered him
9 about this story was that it came from the same source who 10 gave him the 22nd of December, without identifying him, and the 11 fact that when he was going through this business that he had 12 the best sources in the Agency, and that was Sidney Gottlieb, 13 and here was a scientific allegation, plutonium and the 14 scientist and all the rest of them.

15 And again, if he did have a live source in that 16 area, that means he would have a live source across the board.

17 When he asked me about my successor, I told him that 18 I was not prepared to respond to that, that every new man was 19 entitled to one free shave.

20 And he says, I know your successor. And I don't think he 21 actually mentioned the name. But in this article which has just 22 come out he mentions him with his biographical sketch.

23 Senator Baker. Who was your successor?

24 Mr. Angleton. George Kalaris.

25 I had never known him before.

1 So obviously he was talking to me as somebody dis-

3 of why he was doing all this. Whereas my concerns were quite 4 different than his.

5 Mr. Schwarz. Do you think it is possible, because of 6 those different concerns, that your effort to deny the story
7 did not get across to Mr. Szulc?

8 In other words, you are saying you had some concerns that 9 dealt with the scientist being involved, that dealt with the 10 newspaper source, that dealt with Easy Chair, that dealt with 11 the statement that maybe the December 1974 article was inaccur-12 ate. And he pursued all these matters with some vigor and in-13 terest.

14 Do you think it is possible that because of that that 15 whatever denial you made of the transfer of atomic parts of 16 the story didn't get across to Mr. Szulc?

17 Mr. Angleton. No, I think it got across to him.

18 Mr. Schwarz. Can you recall your words to him that 19 denied the atomic transfer?

20 Mr. Angleton. My chief words to him was, I said, do you
21 realize what a thing like this implies, and what it would 22 do, depending on how the media picks it up, in destroying all
23 the efforts in the Middle East?

1 Mr. Angleton. They were consistent, but they weren't

 3 Dr. Mann is a person who fits within the Philby, et cetera,

Mr. Angleton. No, I denied his story -- I would like to keep that as his story, something he came and presented. And then when he got down into the other things, which had to do with technology, all I can say is that anyone who follows closely the Nasser, and then later on Sadat accusations against CIA, it is voluminous in terms of their spelling out the sophisticated gadgetry which they discovered, which came from Central Intelligence.

This is a thing that has always concerned us, because in the last war we lost -- and we still do this today, we don't know the extent of this -- we lost some of the installations which we had put in there.

Mr. Schwarz. When you say "we", you mean the CIA?

2 that most of the information which we gained from the SAM's,
3 which had a direct bearing on using B-52's in Vietnam, we
4 gained through [redacted] We could read a whole lot of the compu-
5 terizing and so on of those SAM's. And therefore we were pre-6 pared to give highly sophisticated equipment to [redacted] to 8 knowledge to Vietnam.

9 So I told them, I said, yes, we have worked on questions
10 we have always helped them out technologically. And I think 11 I made the comment that any piece of gear we ever gave them,
12 that they turned it to a far greater sophisticated use
13 than we had, which was true in many instances.

14 And they would cannibalize, and we would get the product.

15 But there was no -- so that this is clearcut, there was 16 no attempt to lead him on regarding the nuclear one, because 17 the nuclear one was very clearly stated to him, that the injec-18 tion of Mann into the story had a certain significance of its 19 own.

20 And I think Wells will bear me out very clearly on this,
21 that the injection of that could not be magic, it had to come

And that is why I can't understand -- I mean, if the papers are correct in what they have stated, although many of the sources were people who also sell electronic equipment.

Mr. Angleton. They have a file. They have, I think, more than one. I think they have a subject file, and in that they have all the documentation that went to the Warren Commission through Mr. Raymond Rocca, who is my deputy.

And then there is a lot of undigested material that was brought out after the Warren Commission.

Senator Baker. Was there ever any inquiry? Or do you have any opinion as to whether Oswald was a Soviet Agent?

Mr. Angleton. Yes, I have a very strong opinion. I know the time factor, I will try to shorten this.

But I tried to prevail on Mr. Dulles that there should not be -- that there should be a statement to the effect that the Commission, in the life of the Commission -- that these are

16 Mr. Angleton. During the period of the Warren Commission
 17 we prevented as far as we could any information from Nosenko
 18 going under the record, on a question of bona fides.

19 Senator Baker. Why?

20 Mr. Angleton. Because we didn't regard him as bona fides.

21 Senator Baker. What did you regard him as?

22 Mr. Angleton. We thought he was a dispatch agent who 23 was sent to mutilated the leads of very high grade Soviets
 24 whom we had acquired prior to that.

25 Senator Baker. To mutilate leads relating to the Kennedy

1 assassination?

2 Mr Angleton. Relating to assassination, KGB agents,
3 ^{VASSALL}
Vassily, the British agents, and many agents in France, a
4 alleged penetration in the U.S., et cetera.

5 Senator Baker. And did McCone accept your advice?

6 Mr. Angleton. He did, except that I understood that 7 a lot of it has been declassified. And when he gave this
8 interview recently with ^{Schor} Shor, I called his executive officer
9 Elder and I asked him, and he said, who in the Agency ever
10 alleged to McCone that we now had re-established the bona fides?

11 And I said, he is an old man and doesn't think too
12 well, et cetera, and don't give me that stuff.

13 And he said, well, I will give it to you.

14 And I never heard from him since. But McCone was a man
15 whowould not have made this statement. He has total recall.

16 Senator Baker. I am sure he does.

17 Do you have an opinion as to whether or not Oswald was 18 infact a Soviet agent?

19 Mr. Angleton. Well, let me put it this way.

20 I don't think that the Oswald case is dead. There are too 21 many leads that were never followed up. There's too much in-
22 formation that has been developed later.

23 For example, in 1966, in a Soviet book on Cuba there is 24 a photograph of Khrushchev, a photograph of Castro, a photograph
25 of a man called Alexiev, real name Shettov, KGB, with the first

1 Soviet Ambassador to Havana, and a man named Leontov, who was 2 the Soviet KGB operational man in Mexico. When the Mexican 3 police arrested Castro as a student, they found in his note-
4 books the name of Leontov, KGB, Mexico.

5 Now, photographs 61, and so on, are in a KGB journal for 6 Soviet citizens abroad. It is a bible, 75 percent KGB staff.
7 Photograph of Brezhnev, Castro, Alexiev, Leontov.

8 Now, we had a double agent after the assassination, 9 who made a number of allegations that he acquired from the 10 Chief of KGB, Mexico, Yatskov and he was a superior of Leontov.
11 Now, after the assassination Khrushchev was in Cairo on a state 12 visit. And he pulled an American journalist aside, and totally 13 out of context, expressed the view that there was a con-
14 spiracy, and it involved the Right Wing of the U.S.

15 The thing was totally out of context. And he planted
16 this bug in this fellow's ear.

17 WE had double agents who stated that the KGB put all of 18 their personnel for six months on working on the assassina-
19 tion, and had concluded that an American Right Wing business
20 under Johnson was to succeed in power. And I am not talking 21 about petty informants. I am talking about men who were ascer-
22 tained members of the KGB and part of the Soviet elite.

23 And I can multiply that. Those cases, those leads have 24 never been followed up. One is because of lack of manpower.
25 Two, the general problem in Washington and the government

1 that there is no forum which can adjudicate issues in the 2 intelligence community of a counter-intelligence nature.
 3 I may have allegations, very firm, that relate to somebody in 4 high office. But there isn't anyone, ombudsman or somebody, to 5 whom you can go with the information and talk to the Soviets and 6 pull the bureau ^{FBI} and ourselves and everybody together.

7 Senator Baker. Could you give us at your leisure a memor-
 8 andum of your recommendations in that respect, how that might 9 be constituted?

10 Mr. Angleton. It would not be a pleasant one. I have 11 submitted -- and I don't think it is breaking any confidence --
 12 such a memorandum to the Commission. And I have submitted
 13 a personal letter to the Vice President. And my whole plea 14 was that my days were numbered, but regardless, that in and 15 beyond the life of that Commission, that in his position as 16 Vice President he had a rare opportunity the first time these 17 matters were ever aired, and that the disaster of Hoover's death, 18 and Gray, and the Watergate and so forth, has destroyed the 19 counter-intelligence forces.

20 And this added thing of Hersh has about dealt the final 21 blow.

22 ~~Senator Baker. I hate to interrupt you, and I also hate~~

Mr. Angleton. Very, very poor.

I have put in there, and I think it is very conservative, that it has put us back 20 years. But I think in the eyes of every intelligence service in the Western World, where we have had the leadership and we pulled everything together, and where they have looked to us for guidance and for traces and for understanding, that we have lost all of our prestige.

Senator Baker. Two more quick questions, and I will yield my turn.

Do you know or have any substantial information about Russian KGB activities in the U.S. such as the infiltration of Congressional offices?

Mr. Angleton. There is a whole history of information that relates to the past and to modus operandi and to targets, and so on. And that is inclusive of all the American life, and in particularly visits to the Soviet Union, and so on. There are communications intelligence more sensitive which was broken during and after the war, KGB communications, New York to Moscow, and Washington to Moscow, et cetera. And there were cryptonyms given. And it runs into hundreds of thousands of messages, of which a small percentage have been broken.

And they relate to Hiss and many things. And most of those cases will not be subject to prosecution, because they would not be admissible. And there are a lot of problems there. We have worked on it, and we brought the the

because we have this common denominator of the military and other agreements where they do share common information.

And there are many unresolved cases.

Senator Baker. Do you know of any cases, though, dealing with penetration of a Congressional office?

Mr. Angleton. No. But my statement doesn't mean anything, because I can assure you that it is the last thing I have been concerned with in some months. But I have seen these allegations in the paper, I wouldn't be surprised. And this is the second time in my life, or the third time, I have ever been here. To come here and see how this whole set up is is quite a shock.

Senator Baker. What about communications intercept, Congressional conversations, are you aware of any methodical effort by the Russians or the KGB vis-a-vis Congressional telephone conversations?

Mr. Angleton. Absolutely. I think -- I am assuming now that the people in NSR are correct, they usually are, that the telephone, the formal telephone company traffic apparently, without the knowledge of the caller, is quickly shifted to microwave. That runs into hundreds of thousands of telephone calls.

Now, I used to be quite deeply involved in the penetration of embassies, and so forth, in my youth. And it

1 is a fingernail, arm and body affair. It takes an awfully
2 long time before you finally get into a code room and a 3 place where you can do something securely.

4 What I am trying to say is that if you get enough
5 depth on any target or any installation you begin to know much
6 more about that installation than anybody who occupies it.

7 Senator Baker. If I were trying to confirm the rumor
8 that the KGB had the capability and did in fact record as many 9 as 30 or 40 thousand simultaneous telephone conversations,
10 mostly related to governmental officials, and transmitted them
11 to the Soviet Union, and kept individual files on them, would 12 you confirm that for me?

13 Mr. Angleton. I would state that that is absolutely in 14 my view correct. And I would say that the man who technically 15 could respond to that would be Dr. Lou Tordello, a retired
16 Chief of NSA who is now, I think, still a consultant there.
17 And he is probably amore sophisticated person to relate the pro-
18 ducts of NSA to the realities of the question you asked.

19 And I think the other point I would make is simply that 20 what the KGB has, which we never will have, is manpower.
21 In other words, we have to narrow the size of the target some 22 day the way the British did, and expel that 105,

23 Our State Department says that what happened in 24 England has no relevancy here, because we have had a different
25 setup, because among those expelled men who served in Washington,

And that statement, official statement, was put out without any consultation with the Bureau or ourselves. So, we are living in a dream world here in terms of Soviets, and time is short, it is detente, and it is all the fallacious kind of discussions and arguments one hears on the subject. We have come to detente for information through operations and our understanding of it, not wishful thinking.

And our views are shared by professionals all through the Western World. And they laugh at the U.S. in terms of what detente has done. But what it has done to the intelligence services, or to the FBI, the FBI is only a shadow of what it once was. And so there isn't any real internal security protection.

The Bureau's problems -- and I had the case of a KGB officer threatening one of the people we are dealing with in the Mid-west, he was from the United Nations, a young KGB fellow. And I asked the Bureau, was he a _____ ?

Mr. Angleton. No.

What about the pictures, one of which was a picture of Leontov that was in a piece of paper found in Mr. Oswald's pocket when he was arrested in Mexico?

Mr. Angleton. There is an allegation.

Mr. Schwarz. What connection is there between that picture and that allegation and Lee Harvey Oswald?

Mr. Angleton. The only thing is, Oswald's trip to Mexico was to go to Cuba allegedly to contact the Soviets.

Mr. Schwarz. And was Leontov then in Mexico, or --

Mr. Angleton. I don't know, because the double agent whom we believe was actually controlled by the Soviets, 21 a planted agent?

1 Mr. Schwarz. You said that Nosenko, one of the reasons
 2 you suspected Nosenko was a double agent, or a planted agent,
 3 rather, was because he was saying things that were contra-
 4 dictory to some other high quality person who theretofore had 5 been giving you information before Nosenko came to this 6 country?

7 Mr. Angleton. That is right.

8 Mr. Schwarz. What was the nature of the information
 9 relating to the Kennedy assassination that the high quality
 10 person had given you?

11 Mr. Schwarz. Let me say this so that it makes a little 12 more sense.

13 In December 1961 a member of the KGB in Helsinki defected
 14 to us. His name is ^{GOLITSYN} Golitzen. He has never been in service, 15 except Jack Anderson came out with an erroneous account of it,
 16 alleging that he had stated there was a plot to assassinate
 17 Nixon. He did not make such a statement.

18 Mr. Kirbow. Do you think this statement should be on 19 the record?

20 Mr. Angleton. I don't mind it being on the record after 21 the Anderson article. They have been looking for him.

22 Now, his is probably without any question the most major
 23 defection since World War II as far as Soviet intentions,
 24 Soviet organization, and Soviet operations are concerned.
 25 And the reason, among others, that it was so important was

1 he had decided to defect many years prior to December of 1961,
 2 if the opportunity ever arrived. And therefore he used those
 3 many years breaking down the compartmentalization of the KGB
 4 in order to acquire the kind of information which would be most 5 valuable to the US, and to our allies.

6 Therefore he refused many assignments abroad, but tried 7 to always remain in headquarters and get himself appointed to 8 investigative commissions and other things of this sort which 9 would get into everybody else's business. Among other things, 10 he spent many years in the training schools for people who 11 came back for six weeks from different parts of the world to 12 brag about their achievements. And he absorbed all of this 13 information.

14 And among other things, he stated that he gave the 15 cryptograms and circumstantial evidence of penetrations
 16 throughout the West.

17 And then the Soviets rapidly transferred 300 of their 18 people after his defection. And as is normal in a case of 19 this kind, the big problem is to write a damage report, which 20 means the whole service would come to a standstill. And the 21 objective would be to review all paper files and everything that 22 showed his initials. And you usually would have three 23 categories of information: you would have information which 24 he definitely had knowledge of, and information which he did
 25 not have knowledge of, and information which you are not

2 Now, when we did a similar operation on the Sergeant

7 that after his assassination, in a search of the quarters,
8 the Bureau, or whoever did the search, found six of my letters those cases which were perishable, the French, the British, and ourselves, et cetera. And we had never had a second Chief Director, which means the FBI type of Soviet, defector in our lives, and all of this out of the blue, and no contact as in Geneva six months after the defection of Golitzen.

Mr. Schwarz. And the date is when in relations to the Kennedy assassination?

Mr. Angleton. Well, this was a contact, this was not a defection. He came to us once for information prior to the assassination.

And then in Moscow the Soviets -- and I am not going into a lot of names, a member of the Second Chief Directorate, gave an American tourist a stack of documents from the Second Chief Directorate, the FBI, relating to how they got

, and others of our agents, which showed they didn't get them through a two-headed source, but they got it through a on our side.

So the leads ran into the thousands from Golitzen, and thousands and thousands of pages of transcript, interrogation, exhibiting photographs, and identifications, which in turn would refresh his memory on other courses. And out of that came the finalization of the case of Philby, Burgess, and all that, the Vassily case in the British Admiralty, and some other cases, and many cases in France and so on.

1 Mr. Angleton. No, not from Golitz^{syn}en.

2 But when the assassination took place --

3 Mr. Schwarz. The Kennedy assassination?

4 Mr. Angleton. When the Kennedy assassination took place,
5 Golitz^{syn}en called me immediately and stated that the modus

7 Union required that he go through processing by the 13th
8 Department of the KGB.

9 Mr. Schwarz. Which is their assassination department?

10 Mr. Angleton. Which is their assassination department,
11 which is called their Affairs for Executive Action.

12 And there are two reasons for it. Number one was, to 13 find out what sophisticated weaponry or training he might have 14 had that would be of use to them. And number two, whether it
15 was more valuable to reinfiltrate him into the National Army
16 for future activity.

18 Mr. Angleton. Of anything. It could be sabotage, or 19 intelligence, or whatever.

20 AND THIS WAS THE SOP on the dealing with military 21 defectors.

22 Now, when the Soviet Government turned over to the US
23 all the documents that led to the interest regarding Oswald
24 stay in the Soviet Union, there was nothing there indicating

1 Nosenko, whom we hid once in Geneva, he went back to Moscow.
2 And in my view he would have never come back on the scene
3 because they brought this Cheraponov thing in to have the locus
4 shifted from where we would have controls, in Geneva, to 5 Moscow where they would have all the controls. And that would 6 be the Directorate. And therefore they would have the direct 7 means of counteracting and mutilating the leads and the 8 importance of Golitzen's defection.

9 But the tourist gave the documents to the American 10 Embassy. And we photographed them. The Charge insisted on 11 giving them back to the Soviets on grounds that it would be

14 ing with Oswald but the documents that the man tried to pass

17 of the documents out of the FBI Soviet section and gave them
18 to the tourist and we read how we got caught on things.

19 So there is the assassination. Cheraponov allegedly 20 was chased to the Turkish border and shot. And in my view 21 this is a myth, because in 1948 Cheraponov was stationed in 22 Belgrade, and he tried to defect to us, and at another time
23 tried to establish liaison and contact with the British MI-6, 24 at a time when Philby was Chief of Intelligence, meaning 25 that the approach would have been under Philby in 1948, and then he reappears in the early 1960's as a member of the Second Chief Directorate.

That is enough of Cherapanov. But it is important only from the Soviet point of view, the best laid plans fall apart.

And then out of the blue, Nosenko, whom we would never have seen again, reappears after the assassination in Geneva, and tells us he wants to defect.

Mr. Schwarz. And he provided information which was inconsistent with Oswald being the Russian agent?

Mr. Angleton. I am coming to that.

So immediately we tried to get the breadth of his career so that we know where the priorities are. And the first thing he tells us is that while he was in the Second Chief Directorate in the American Section, Oswald's KGB dossier went over his desk. And his first story, as I recall it, was that it was two volumes or three volumes. And finally it went down to one volume and a small sheaf of papers.

Also he said that the dossier showed clearly that Oswald was mentally unbalanced, and that he was a poor shot, and therefore couldn't get a hunting license, and a lot of stuff of this sort.

And then on all of these outstanding leads -- penetrations, of the French, the Americans, the British codes, bugging of the Embassy, all of these different sorts -- Nosenko had something to do which diverted us from Nosenko's leads. And

1 in the normal course of events, we might have put Golitzen in
 2 contact with Nosenko, which may have meant the assassination
 3 of Golitzen, because the whole approach of Nosenko was one
 4 where logically you would bring them in and have two bodies, 5 one from the First Chief Directorate, that is, Golitzen, the 6 CIA part of the system, and the other from the FBI part of the 7 system, and therefore you would have a very strong balance
 8 against the KGB. But we didn't do that. Because there were 9 certain things, litmus papers, questions put to Nosenko. And 10 as far as I was concerned, if he was bona fide he would have 11 answered one way, and he did not answer that way. And they had 12 to do with some deeper secrets regarding a meeting of the 13 2000 members of the KGB and the Soviet Government in May of 14 1959, presided over by Shelepin and attended by many members
 15 of the Central Committee on the reorientation of the Soviet 16 Services and the return to Leninism wherever intelligence
 17 operations has a political objective. And this is a part of 18 the process of de-Stalinization. And so when we took him
 19 unwittingly chronologically through his career, he omits
 20 all of this phase. And we had three or four or five other test
 21 things, where their damage report would not show that Golitzen
 22 had access, because it was part of his way of getting in and 23 breaking compartmentation. And therefore they would have no
 24 evidence that he had sufficient knowledge.

25 Mr. Schwarz. And so Nosenko looked funny to you, he looked wrong to you?

Mr. Angleton. Absolutely.

Mr. Schwarz. He looked like a plant to you?

Mr. Angleton. Precisely.

Mr. Schwarz. And among the information that he provided to you was that Oswald was a mental case and was a bad shot?

Mr. Angleton. Right.

Mr. Schwarz. And you had also received from Nosenko --

Mr. Angleton. Golitzensm -- from Golitzensm -- information that suggested the normal practice was for Department 13, which had responsibility from the Russian KGB for assassinations, to interview military defectors. And we had observed that when the Russians transferred documents concerning Oswald, that there was no reference in there to any such debriefing by Department 13. And another important part of it is that there was a man who was handling George Blake from London, who was Counselor of the Soviet Embassy. And when he returned he became head of the 13 Department, General Rodin. But he was there under an alias as a civilian. He was the Chief of the KGB in London, and a very high grade man. Then he took over the Department 13 and reinvigorated it.

Mr. Schwarz. And what was his connection with Oswald?

Mr. Angleton. I am saying that he was head of Department 13, and was head of Department 13 at a time -- I mean, he had a long history in that, in other words, the prominence of 1 Department 13 and this is a point I think I should make, that

2 the Agency, unlike the Soviets, does not have an assassination
3 department. The Soviets have always had an assassination
4 department, which is totally sealed off from the rest of the 5 organization. People from the outside know very little about 6 what goes on in that. People career-wise stay in there. And 7 they report to the Chairman of the KGB, and drop off, who in 8 turn report to the Politboro. And therefore it is an entirely
9 sealed organization which is capable of all forms of action,
10 whether it be sabotage -- an illegal sabotage or what, an 11 illegal directorate which is independent of the rest of the 12 KGB -- nuclear sabotage, and all this type of thing, and 13 infiltration of enemy forces in the event of war. And of 14 course assassination, the assassination of Ukrainian leaders
15 in West Germany.

16 Mr. Schwarz. Do you recount that simply because it makes 17 more significant the absence of any reference to Oswald because 18 you are giving evidence as to the vigor of Department 13, or 19 did you recount it because there is a more direct connection
20 with Oswald?

21 Mr. Angleton. This is related to what I told Mr. Dulles, 22 I thought it was absolutely wrong to close the door on the 23 life of the Commission, and instead there should be a statement 24 that we are not in a position -- that on the fact available to 25 us during the given period, these are our conclusions. And

1 then to spell out in detail Department 13 and its organization
2 -- and the burden of proof shifts. But not only the burden
3 of proof, but you never know when a worm goes into somebody's
4 head to defect from Department 13. And that bring you up on 5 the entire story.

6 Mr. Schwarz. So you have recounted the importance of 7 Department 13. You have recounted the significance in your 8 mind of the absence of any reference to Department 13 in the 9 documentation on Oswald turned over by the Soviets to the US.
10 And you have recounted the strange nature of the information
11 provided by Nosenko.

12 Mr. Angleton. Correct.

13 Mr. Schwarz. Let me ask you another line of questions
14 about each one of these items. As to the Nosenko information, 15 you stated that that information was suppressed from the 16 Warren Commission?

17 Mr. Angleton. The word suppression is probably not the 18 right word because, I will be very honest with you, I was told 19 the other day that the information was given classified, and 20 it was given to Helms or somebody, or Mr. McCone, who passed
21 it as a classified document. I have asked for it, but I
22 haven't seen it.

23 Mr. Schwarz. Why did you say a moment ago that it was 24 suppressed?

25 Mr. Angleton. Because I never knew where it went. When

1 I was sitting in the position as to where that information
 2 would go, I was opposed to it. And my official position was 3 that. And I thought until relatively recently that it never 4 went.

5 And then all of a sudden they have declassified a lot of 6 stuff. And Mr. ^{Rocha} Rocha, who was the point of record of the 7 Agency's dealing with the Warren Commission, told me that 8 Nosenko stuff was the stuff they were declassifying. Now, his 9 role was not one of the executive nature. Actually it was 10 simply because he was a great scholar and a great many other 11 things, and therefore he had the most catholic background to 12 handle something as complex as the Warren Commission, not in 13 exercising executive power, but working on behalf of the 14 Director and all the Directorates and everything pertaining 15 to the Warren Commission. He is a tidy individual. And in 16 fact Mr. Belin has made a great deal of use of him in the 17 Commission's business, and he is the one that had done all the 18 digging for the Commission, and so on, on a whole series of 19 matters that I am not familiar with.

20 But my point to you -- and this is very difficult to 21 explain -- is that the question of Nosenko created a very 22 great division in the life of all counterintelligence as to 23 bona fides, as in all questions of when you are dealing with 24 double identification agents, there is always dispute.

25 But let me just line up the order of battle here. Our

1 Chief of the Soviet Division accepted the fact that the man
2 was a provocation. His Chief of Counterintelligence accepted
3 the fact that the man was a provocation.

4 Mr. Schwarz. Do you mean provocation, or providing 5 false information?

6 Mr. Angleton. An Agent Provocateur.

7 I said he was false. My man said he was false. And it
8 isn't a parrot affair, each one reads the same stuff and 9 analyzes and come to their own conclusion. And Golitzen,^{Sp}
10 who defected, based only on the Geneva, first encounter in 11 Geneva, not the defection, had predicted in advance that 12 because of the enormity of his defection they would send a 13 provocateur into the West to destroy and mutilate his leads.

14 So it was a question of awaiting, you might say, who 15 knocks on the door. And here is Nosenko.

16 Now, since then the Chief of the Soviet Division who is 17 no longer there, has recanted in a way -- the Inspector 18 General went into all this -- he is today the NIO dealing in 19 Soviet Affairs, the National Intelligence Officer on Soviet 20 Affairs. And his counterintelligence man, a fellow named
21 Pete Bagley, who is the brother of the two Admirals Bagley,
22 and one of the best men we had, left the Agency and is now
23 in Belgium in private life. And I can go all the way through 24 these other people who have been dispersed. But the record
25 will clearly reflect that the preponderance of all individuals

1 was that Nosenko was sent on a mission.

2 Mr. Schwarz. And provided false information?

3 Now, is it your current understanding that what was 4 provided to the Warren Commission was the raw information
5 brought by Nosenko, or was the Warren Commission also provided
6 with the opinion of persons such as yourself and others as you
7 have recounted that he was providing false information?

8 Mr. Angleton. I don't think the Warren Commission was 9 ever faced with the issue of the internal issues of Golitzen
10 or Nosenko.

11 Mr. Schwarz. You first said that the information was 12 suppressed from the Warren Commission, and then you said no,
13 it is your understanding now --

14 Mr. Angleton. Well, the word suppression isn't the right
15 word, I said. One went to argue the matter and it was agreed 16 by higher authority that the information shouldn't be --

17 Senator Mathias. There was a value judgment made as to 18 the usefulness of the material?

19 Mr. Angleton. That is right -- and not to do what the 20 Soviet in our mind wanted us to do, which was to give it 21 prominence and have it come out as an official part of the 22 record and documents and articles, and so on.

23 Mr. Schwarz. But your current understanding is that the 24 information was provided?

25 Mr. Angleton. That was classified, and never came out in

2 Mr. Schwarz. But was nevertheless provided to the 3 Commission?

4 Mr. Angleton. It was made known to them in some fashion.

5 Mr. Schwarz. Was it made known to them at the same time
6 that at least certain experts within the Agency thought it
7 was false information?

8 Mr. Angleton. I think, as I understand it now, that in 9 spite of our feelings, either Helms or McCone made a 10 presentation of it.

11 Mr. Schwarz. But without mentioning your feelings,
12 certain experts thought that it was false?

13 Mr. Angleton. I can't respond to that. I don't know.

14 Mr. Schwarz. What about the information derived from 15 Golitzen, which indicated in your expert opinion that the 16 documents provided by the Soviet Union were, I think you put 17 it, funny, or strange, or misleading, because they did not 18 include any reference to debriefing by Department 13, was that 19 information provided to the Warren Commission?

20 Mr. Angleton. I don't know. I don't think so. But all 21 I can say there is this, to be realistic. No one would expect 22 the Soviet Government, regardless, to provide documents,
23 secret documents, on Oswald, whether he was or was not their 24 agent. And I say, I can go all the way back through history, 25 the way they falsified the official record, they had it with

1 the Italians in 1923, Constatinople, and cases on diplomatic 2 issues, the complete thing was fabricated, and so on. And 3 there is no way of testing them, the security is such that 4 they can't be tested.

5 So we are not under any illusions of expecting them to 6 state that he went through the 13 Department, which asked him
 7 the following questions.

8 Mr. Schwarz. So you say that as far as that matter goes
 9 there is no possibility that anybody on the Warren Commission
 10 was fooled?

11 Mr. Angleton. I mean, I don't think anybody was. I 12 didn't follow the Warren Commission, Rocha followed it, and he 13 was running over there all the time, and so on.

14 Mr. Kirbow. Let me ask you. There would have been no
 15 reason why anyone on the Warren Commission would have known
 16 that as a matter of everyday business that they did in fact
 17 run every defector through Department 13?

18 Mr. Angleton. I don't think we ever told them. But you 19 see, Allen Dulles -- that is what I am coming to -- I used to 20 see Allen Dulles regularly, and I was an advisor officially 21 to him on a lot of headaches, and I did a lot of leg work for 22 him. And I regarded him as a very personal friend. And I am
 23 Executor of his papers, among other things.

24 But the point I am coming to is, to try to give him

1 FBI's position and Mr. Hoover's, and so on, so that he would
2 be more sensitive to the things, no longer being Director,
3 that were no longer german to his position on the matter.

4 Mr. Schwarz. Was there a connection between the FBI and 5 Oswald?

6 Mr. Angleton. I don't know the full FBI story. I know
7 there was a tremendous flap in the Bureau. And one of the best
8 men they had in my view is a professional a man called Burt
9 Turner, who I understand just got his law degree. And Burt
10 Turner was one of the finest men on Soviet KGB activities in 11 the US, one of the analyzts. And he was in the Washington 12 Field Office. And it is my understanding -- and this is 13 basically hearsay, but from pretty good sources -- that Burt
14 Turner was handling the Oswald ore related matters at the time
15 the President made the trip down to Texas, and that there was 16 some confusion that the Bureau had not turned over, or had 17 not taken enough initiative in turning over, all the informa-
18 tion on Oswald to the local police. I had been told that 19 there was a black mark put against Turner's name, and that he 20 confronted Mr. Hoover and stated he was not going to permit, 21 or have it be known to his children, that his negligence was 22 responsible for the death of the President. And he was pretty 23 forceful about his position. And as a result, this was 24 expunged or something to that effect. And that is the reason
25 he went to the Washington Field Office instead of staying in Headquarters.

1 And then he retired. And I think his retirement had 2 something to do with this fact.

3 But this is all by virtue of hindsight with the thousands
4 of cases. And I cannot see any Western intelligence service
5 seizing on facts that Oswald will return to the US, and then 6 going and saying, we will get all of this, and we will send 7 it to Texas.

8 What I am trying to say, is that the difference in their 9 system. With the manpower and the computers, which are mainly 10 ours, and whatnot, a situation of that sort is automatic. And 11 we know enough about the Second Chief Directorate and the 12 controls, the total controls, to know that if a Soviet returned
13 automatically, to any part of the Soviet Union he went, there 14 would be a dossier that would go, and there would be also an 15 operational directive to put him on tap, check his mail, to 16 do the following, and so on and to put an agent near him.
17 There wouldn't be any leaking anything in the air on that.
18 There would be total encapsulation of that individual until 19 it was ceratin beyond a shadow of a doubt that he was not sent 20 back as an agent.

21 Mr. Schwarz. A moment ago in talking about the line-up, 22 as I think you put it, of views on Nosenko, you recounted the 23 views of a number of people. And you said that one person
24 had changed his mind or recanted subsequently. And you made
25 a reference in that connection to an Inspector General's

1 report. What was that report?

2 Mr. Angleton. At one stage in all of this -- and it was 3 much later, after all the dust settled -- Helms got the 4 Inspector General, who had come from the clandestine side of 5 our business, to institute -- I don't like to use the word
6 inspection, it is too authoritative -- to go into the Nosenko
7 matter and see if there is anything there that he should know,
8 because Helms is fully aware of the split on this whole
9 question of bona fides, and it bothered him, because I had 10 brought him in touch with Golitzen, and he was fully aware of 11 all my activities, and travels and so on.

12 And so this person who was chosen began to interview
13 everybody and reopen the whole thing. I mean, there were 21
14 safe leads of stuff if you really got into all of the Golitzen
15 and Nosenko and the other things that pertained, as I pointed 16 out. to the Warren Commission, to the asininity of what has 17 happened, of 27 years of experience of myself and my two 18 colleagues, that these are the facts, that there are 20 cases 19 --

20 Mr. Schwarz. You said Warren Commission. You mean
21 Rockefeller?

22 Mr. Angleton. Excuse me, Rockefeller.

23 There are 20 some odd cases that a counterintelligence
24 officer in our busienss should know before he even begins to 25 get his feet wet.

1 Now, when Dr. Schlesinger came in, and I started hearing
 2 all of these things of management by objectives, and synergistic
 3 and a lot of other things, being applied to the art forms which 4 we had developed, I finally got so frustrated that I thought
 5 I would take him up on his own thing. So I got statisticians
 6 in to take all the safes and figure out the linear footage of 7 every safe drawer, all the way on through, and to computerize
 8 how long it would take the normal case officer to come up to 9 this elemental stage of being able to be launched.

10 That was sort of a preparatory business. And they 11 figured it out and they said it would take 22 man years, we 12 meant that if we were 100 percent incorrect, it would be 11
 13 man years. And that was simply to apprise Schlesinger, and 14 Colby, who had never been in counterintelligence, of what all 15 this problem was about. They had the idea of transferring 16 people back and forth and all the rest of it. And I never chose
 17 anybody in that job as a rule who had either been in the FBI
 18 or had not had very rich experience in counterintelligence.
 19 And normally I kept outside leaks to anybody in the business
 20 -- I had men who stayed with me for 11 years, Rocca was with 21 me for 31 years, even though they went into operational situa-22 tions abroad and returned, and so on.

planned. In other words, they had the thing penetrated, and it was foredoomed.

Mr. Schwarz. Through the exile community in Miami?

Mr. Angleton. No, through Soviet agents and everything, and so on, there was no cover or second investigation or anything.

So when Bill took over in the Cuban business, then I decided that since we were very close friends that I would try to help him out by getting him a source totally unknown to everybody. And I went to the [redacted] And I had them assign a man to Havana, whom I happened to know very well.

[redacted]

And he was sent to Havana, which meant that here he was -- and the communications were from him in a one time pattern, I mean total security, from Havana to [redacted] to me, and from me to Bill. And no one knew of his existence or his identify, except Harvey and myself, and of course, Dick Helms.

Mr. Schwarz. McCone?

Mr. Angleton. I can't remember whether -- yes, McCone would have know, but he wouldn't have been interested.

What I am trying to say is, he knew.

Mr. Kirbow. Helms knew because he was DDP --

1 Mr. Angleton. He knew, because even before I went into 2 this I told him what I was going to do, and he agreed, and 3 so on.

4 And also I wanted a person, because there was a radio
5 going to be put into Havana, and let somebody say we need a 6 radio in Havana, or drop some men in. And then the point is,
7 I get the radio to [redacted] and to Havana and then put it
8 someplace, and then tell him, you go to such and such a place
9 and find the radio, and then have some men come in and call
10 some men to make contact, with the view that I couldn't trust
11 the whole setup.

12 So for many a long period of time this worked perfectly.
13 This individual established his cover. They only had two or 14 three people in the Embassy there. He would go to a 15 Hungarian restaurant where the Soviet officers would also go.
16 And he would spot one of the waiters or a headwater who was 17 [redacted] and it wouldn't be long before he would say, you are 18 from the [redacted] and pretty soon one thing led to 19 another, and his production was without question the greatest 20 production there was.

21 Well, it got so complex in names and geography, and so on,
22 that is when I came to the point that I brought Harvey
23 together secretly with this individual, the only person I put 24 in touch was an [redacted] in this context. So later on the 25 Soviets come out with the statement, is Bill Harvey on the

1 with. It looks big today to you, but when you think of what 2 the Agency's efforts were at that time in the Miami base with 3 all the boats and the biggest Navy in the world, and all the 4 rest, a little thing involving one man was not a thing that 5 you went up and made a fuss to Mr. McCone about.

6 Mr. Schwarz. Did you know Mr. Harvey pretty well, was 7 he someone you knew?

8 Mr. Angleton. Very well indeed. In fact, I just called 9 him the other day, his mother died.

10 Mr. Schwarz. I heard that.

11 Did you know anything about his use of underworld
12 figures in connection with --

13 Mr. Angleton. I know the allegations.

14 Mr. Schwarz. At the time did you know of that?

15 Mr. Angleton. I only know one incident.

16 Mr. Schwarz. Okay.

17 Mr. Angleton. Simply the Bureau, the FBI, ran a 18 surveillance. And Sam Papich, who was the Liaison Officer
19 of the FBI, who is now Head of the Criminal Commission in 20 Mexico, was at my house around 10 o'clock at night. And the 21 Washington Field Office or Headquarters Miami located Papich
22 at my house. They were absolutely boiling, because they had 23 surveilled the Mafia all the way from California to National 24 Airport, and he had got off the plane and was met by a man who 25 was the physical description of Bill to a tee. And they

2 what to do.

3 Mr. Schwarz. That was Mr. Roselli, was it?

4 Mr. Angleton. I think it was.

5 Mr. Kirbow. And the Bill you speak of here is Bill
6 Harvey?

7 Mr. Angleton. Bill Harvey.

8 So I could get the gist of Bill's questions to them. And 9 I told him -- I made a motion to put his hand over the phone
10 and not to let them discuss it. And I said, tell them not to 11 do anything until they hear from you.

12 And that is what he told them, he said, stand down on 13 this and I will be back in touch.

14 And then Bill told me the whole story in detail of how 15 he had gone over from California and followed him in this 16 thing, and how Harvey had put him in his car and he went off.

17 Mr. Schwarz. That was in 1973 shortly before Mr. Harvey
18 went to Rome?

19 Mr. Angleton. It wasn't shortly before, it was, I think 20 quite a long time before.

21 So then I told Sam, I said, look, let's go very easy on 22 this -- because I didn't know anything about Bill's connection
23 with the Mafia and all that, but I did know him well enough
24 to know that he was not a frivolous man, and that this thing
25 happened, and keep in mind that ex-FBI men, contrary to public opinion, were not very much liked by Mr. Hoover when they left

So I called Bill's house, and I asked his wife, is Bill around?

And she said, no, he is out to dinner tonight.

And I said, look, we have some very serious trouble. Would you please tell me where I can locate him.

And she said, he is at Duke Zeibert's. And I called Duke Zeibert's and I managed to get him. And I turned the phone over to Papich, because I did not want to be on the record showing that this was Angleton, et cetera.

And Papich talked to Bill, and actually I didn't hear the discussion. It was something about, I will see you tomorrow.

And Sam told the surveillance and all the other people to forget it, and the Headquarters would take over.

And that is my knowledge, direct knowledge of what Anderson and everybody else has stated.

Mr. Kirbow. Mr. Angleton, to your specific knowledge did Bill ever attempt to use the excellent contact he had in Havana to carry out the mission of eliminating the leader down there, or try to get any help out of him in that regard?

9 "Although the details of the Israeli nuclear enterprise
10 are still top secret, it is known that in the wake of the 11 1956 Suez war, the Eisenhower Administration resolved to 12 provide Israel with all possible help in developing an atomic 13 weapon. The Israelis had the theoretical knowledge, but they 14 needed technological support at their Dimona nuclear research

16 "According to the top intelligence sources, the CIA was second paragraph, is where all the questions are raised.

Really, the CIA would be hard put to transfer any fissionable materials without the knowledge of the Atomic Energy Commission, would it not?

Mr. Angleton. Sir, I can assure you that the CIA -- I don't really know what the word fissionable means anymore. There is so much use of the atomic energy. We have atomic battery --

Senator Tower. By fissionable materials, I think the reference here is that could be converted to weapons.

Mr. Angleton. I just don't categorically -- in my whole history in the CIA, nothing ever involved fissionable material except intelligence about it or speculations regarding leakages and so forth.

Senator Tower. In other words, the CIA doesn't have control over any stocks of fissionable materials independently?

Mr. Angleton. No.

Senator Tower. And therefore the CIA could not acquire such materials except through the knowledge of the Atomic Energy Commission?

Mr. Angleton. That is right -- I hate to nit pick, but I want to simply state that there was a problem in the Agency once where you have, say, somebody simply approach you and state, I have access to fissionable materials, and therefore if it is a covert thing, and it raises a big policy question, how do we deal with those kinds of cases, where someone allegedly, a confidence man, or whatnot, who wants to sell you the stuff? The purpose then was to penetrate, or try to penetrate. And I wonder if there wasn't a question at one stage as to what we do about it, and what the dangers would be if we use the diplomatic pouch, and there are thousands of questions. And it did happen in the Far East. And it was a false case, confidential case. But it did happen. There was an offer to sell us atomic fissionable material or something. But my point is, there has never been initiative to my knowledge, or an interest of the CIA in any shape or form wanting any fissionable material.

Senator Tower. Dave:

Mr. Aaron. Two small points. Mr. Szulc said that "In effect Mr. Angleton said at one point that should I surface Mr. Mann's name, Dr. Mann's name, he may go as far as to commit suicide.

Did you ever say that to Mr. Szulc?

Mr. Angleton. I don't think I said it to him. But in the back of my mind -- after I left you -- was what I think I told you -- and maybe I didn't tell you, maybe I told Colby, that is what bothers me -- still have an open espionage case in which a report of theirs alleges that either Dr. Mann being present or something that someone tried to cut his throat in Philby's house in

1 Washington, when Philby was stationed there. Now, whether 2 we had the report or not I don't know. So I am a little 3 confused as to that statement. Because I don't think the 4 question of using Mann's name came up other than in the 5 context of the allegation that Mann was sent by me, and would 6 this mean, if it came out in terms of the Head of Services,
 7 who had called for phrases, British, French, et cetera, and 8 they would have this confirmation, one do they know anything
 9 about my [redacted] activities now, and then the most damaging 10 would be the entire information on Mann and Philby, et cetera.

11 Mr. Aaron. Let me just read one other segment of his 12 testimony: "Angleton said after recounting the story of the 13 transfer of atomic technology Mr. Szulc went on and said,
 14 Angleton said that he was rather taken back by this information,
 15 said that in effect he could confirm it with corrections:
 16 one, the timeframe was wrong, that it was not the early '60's,
 17 but indeed the late '50's after the Suez war, and number two, 18 that as far as he was concerned there was not delivered by the 19 CIA, or anyone to his knowledge any fissionable material such 20 as plutonium or other material."

21 Mr. Angleton. I don't follow that at all.
 22 Mr. Aaron. Did you make those two corrections?

 2 a little earlier to you was in terms of trying to bring out
 3 that you did not agree with his story, that you did not

5 Mr. Angleton. That part is correct. But I am not follow-
 6 ing this last part you are reading.

7 Mr. Aaron. Let me show it to you and you read it.

8 Mr. Schwarz. Would you identify the page and the line?

9 Mr. Aaron. The page is page 40, beginning at line 19 and 10 running to the end of the page.

11 Mr. Angleton. That said in effect he could confirm it,
 12 that is the "it" business?

13 Mr. Aaron. Start back further and get the general
 14 story.

15 Mr. Angleton. This is false on page 40, from line 8, 16 "Mr. Angleton told me that essentially this information was 17 correct," that is absolutely false.

18 And I never made any such statement that I could confirm 19 it -- lines 19 and 20, "Angleton said he was really taken back 20 and in effect he could confirm the two corrections." That is 21 false.

22 Mr. Aaron. I think that covers it.

23 Mr. Angleton. And this is false: "one or more

 25 were available to the US Government", that is totally false.

Mr. Angleton. He knew what I was stating was this stuff that has come out in volumes of Sadat's resume of CIA's help to the Israelis, which was accurate.

Senator Tower. By technical assistance here, as I understand it, he means technical assistance and nuclear weapons development.

Mr. Angleton. That is right. And that is deliberately on his part a misstatement of the fact. And that is what I am trying to say.

1 intelligence service in the US in regard to the efforts to 2 acquire nuclear technology or material?

3 Mr. Angleton. No.

4 Let me just state my own feeling about some of this.
5 After he talked to me about having all those great sources
6 which were better than Hirsch's, he said, I also have talked 7 to [redacted] Well, I knew right away that that 8 was a lie. I said, after 22 years' work with some people,
9 they would have been having me out of bed at 3 in the morning.
10 In other words, in 22 years I have never known them to withhold 11 anything germane to our common activity. So that for American 12 journalists to go and try to pump things out of me regarding 13 the subject, he wouldn't have got home before -- that is the 14 first thing. That is the fact. And he said this Israeli 15 fellow said something about, something I don't discuss, or 16 words to that effect, I can't remember that part of it.

17 So there isn't much more to say about that.

18 Mr. Aaron. Were there [redacted] efforts in 19 the US in the 1960's or at any time aimed at acquiring either
20 nuclear technology or information that would have a bearing 21 on this story?

while you were employed with the Agency, Mr. Angleton? I believe that might be a fair question.

Senator Tower. In your capacity as Head of Counter-intelligence, did it ever come to your attention -- did you ever have any certain knowledge that [redacted] agents were actually trying to acquire nuclear secrets in the US, atomic secrets?

I have just a couple of questions that I would appreciate it if Mr. Angleton would give us his evaluations as an expert on. And they go back to his testimony relative to the Kennedy assassination.

As I recall, you said that immediately after the assassination Golitzen on his own initiative communicated with you and advised you that it was normal practice for a defector who had a military background to be processed in Department 13?

Mr. Angleton. Interrogated, or processed.

Senator Mathias. And that the implication certainly of this was that Oswald was an ex-Marine, and had been through this process, and that therefore at least that he might have been acting within the context of the Soviet plan, is that right?

Mr. Angleton. That is the thrust of what he was trying to say. His English is such that it is very difficult.

Senator Mathias. I understand. But then some years later -- my recollection is that you said it was in 1967 or 1969 -- you learned that the KGB had spent six month of employment of their top operators in the investigation of the Kennedy assassination, and wouldn't this fact in your mind negate the implication of the original Golitzen call or that they were involved?

Mr. Angleton. I want to congratulate you, because that man is a man who is also a suspect of Nosenko.

Senator Mathias. You mean in 1967?

Mr. Angleton. Just to show you the ground you are treading on, Golitzen gave us information regarding the penetration of our own organization. And we worked down to an identity. And the FBI disagreed with us. And I am talking about not a few minutes, but several weeks and months of work. And the Bureau's attitude was, you have got the wrong man, and the allegation therefore does not affect the CIA, and we

1 advise that you send it to the Army.

2 And I might add, the man who wrote that memorandum was 3 the Burt Turner I mentioned who was one of the competent
4 FBI analysts. So it was in limbo. And we stated that "X"
5 was the penetration agent, and the Bureau refused to accept
6 that. And in 1967 a Soviet -- on whom we had a dossier on this 7 thing, because he was once stationed in India, and therefore 8 we knew who he was, and all the rest of it -- with an unknown
9 coming to us as Nosenko was, he was a real man, we had years
10 of surveillance on him, and so on. And he came, and he 11 alleged -- and he was a ^{T-21} TDC, temporary duty in Washington
12 here -- and he established contact with the first Mrs. Helms.
13 And eventually I was called to take the case. And he stated
14 that among his missions to the US was to effect the defection
15 or the return to the Soviet Union of a man, and that man was 16 the man whom we had identified as a Soviet agent. And he went 17 into the whole background, that this man was one of the 18 highest grade illegals that they had ever had, and he was in 19 our Agency.

20 So this had a tremendous impact on Burt Turner, because 21 he was one of the two interrogating officers. And I can't 22 talk to you about professional pride, but for a man of his 23 competence to have done it the wrong way, that hurt.

24 So I had a question injected, which was, what do you know
25 about George Blake?

And then his response was, he says, we think he is dead.

Now, where is a man who is supposed to be Special Assistant to the Head of Counterintelligence in KGB, whose mother was a secretary to Litvinov, and he comes therefore from the aristocracy, as Nosenko does, because his father was the Minister of Maritime Affairs. And there is a statue of Nosenko's father. And Golitzen had told us that men chosen for very dangerous missions of penetration and duplicity came from the aristocracy. Everyone trusted them, and their fathers and their families are heroes of the Soviet Union.

So here was this man who said as to Blake, we think he is dead.

Two to three weeks later is when Blake escaped from Scrubb's Woods to the Soviet Union. Now, if he had come to the US to exfiltrate as the Special Assistant to the Head of Counterintelligence, to exfiltrate a person who worked in the West as an illegal from the end of World War II, and gradually worked into us, why wouldn't he have known the exfiltration plans of George Blake, which would have been simultaneous, because he was a Headquarters man here on TDC.

So we handled him for six or seven weeks.

And some of the most telling parts of the interrogation was that when he went back to the Soviet Union he would have access to archives. And what was on our mind, and what cryptonym that we wanted him to work up -- and this would

1 relate to the third part of the damage part on Golitzen --
 2 what did Golitzen know that they did not know he knew? What 3 agents in the West could be under our control as a result of 4 Golitzen's disclosures regarding those things?

5 And you can see the tremendous quality this man had of 6 almost getting from our man those four or five crytonyms,
 7 which would have told them what they wanted to know, because 8 there are cases they are not sure whether he knows or doesn't 9 know, and so on. And these are officials, and so on.

10 So he wasn't given that. He was given stuff that was 11 sort of medium low level stuff, you couldn't call it chicken
 12 feed -- but we never told him we disbelieved in him. And he 13 said, if you do those things for me, I have an opportunity,
 14 because of my mother and so on, to become Head of the American
 15 Department of the KGB.

16 And the other thing he wanted, was, we took him to the 17 Soviet Agency and we came out later for contacts, and he stated 18 there was a telegram there, and he had been requested to 19 acquire all the information possible on the whereabouts of 20 Golitzen and Nosenko. And I was actually in Wisconsin. And 21 I called my Deputy long distance and I said, if there is any 22 proposal put up by that individual that would expose -- and I
 23 use the crytonym name of Golitzen -- don't.

1 Golitzen.

2 Coming back to what you stated, with our litmus paper and 3 with our analysis of him, we treated him as a walk-in, as a 4 part of the thing to confirm Nosenko's bona fides, and the 5 build-up. And he is the one who gave the full description of 6 the fact that for six months the place was immobilized for this 7 investigation, of all the high level all over the works, is 8 the way he put it.

9 Senator Mathias. You contrasted the way that the Russians
10 treat a returned defector, and the way we treat them. And 11 in that connection, to your knowledge was Oswald every 12 interrogated when he returned from Russia?

13 Mr. Angleton. I don't know -- I probably would know, but 14 I don't know whether the military -- normally that would fall
15 within the jurisdiction of the military, since he was a 16 military man who defected. So I don't know the answer to that.

17 Senator Mathias. What about from Cuba?

18 Mr. Angleton. I can't answer that.

19 Senator Mathias. Or at any time?

20 Mr. Angleton. I think the Bureau interviewed him.

21 Senator Mathias. The Bureau, not the CIA?

22 Mr. Angleton. I am certain we never did, no.

23 Senator Mathias. But you think the FBI did?

24 Mr. Angleton. That is just my sensation that they did.

25 Senator Mathias. We will follow that up.

1 This is the very last question. You referred to files

5 About two years ago Arbotov was in this country, and he opened on a member of Congress, and I offered myself as a guinea pig that Arbatov lunch as a starting point.

At this point my question is on purely hypothetical points. I plan to go next week with the Senate group which is making a parliamentary visit to Russia. And may see Arbatov in Moscow. I would assume it would be likely. Would that become a continuing entry in such a dossier as far as you know?

Mr. Angleton. We don't have any coverage in Moscow.

Senator Mathias. Is that the kind of thing that --

Mr. Angleton. We are not living in a very ideal world in the Agency. We can't even process the hard material.

Senator Mathias. Since it is a hypothetical question, let me make it even more hypothetical. Let's say our mission, instead of visiting Moscow, visits Rome or Paris or someplace, where it is very easy for you to operate. And there were meetings with Russians who were known to have visited me in Washington. Would that be the kind of thing which would get to a Congressional file?

Mr. Angleton. No. I imagine the British MI-5, though, because of the Russians in London, would pass through liaison to us, if there was something suspicious, would pass through a report on the meeting. And we have examples where Czech defector told us about a member of Parliament, a Soviet agent, and what the cryptonym was, and how he was recruited. And you have got other cryptonyms on British members of Parliament.

that you have not then identified. We know what they passed or some of the stuff which was passed.

Senator Mathias. Assuming a file was set up on that lunch two years ago --

Mr. Angleton. The file wouldn't be set up there on the fact -- with your name on it, it would be the Soviets, and you would be buried in the file, which would probably be that thick, of that Soviet activity in the US. And there would be the fact that he was here, and that he went to New York, and he did this or that.

Senator Mathias. So that wouldn't show up in Mathias' file, that would show up in an Arbatov file?

Mr. Angleton. That is right. That is the way it is supposed to be. And the only time where I can see a file would be opened on an American Congressman or Senator would be where there was a substantial basis for opening up that file. But that wouldn't be at the initiative of the CIA, it would be a matter that would go to the FBI and the Attorney General, and then there would be somebody in the Senate or the Congress who would be contacted and notified, and so on. And I think Mr. Hoover's practice was that he would learn through his own sources that a person who is not good was going to have lunch with a Congressman or was cultivating him, and he would pick up the money -- or this is what they say. And I think this is the way he handled it -- he would simply call him on the phone and say, I think you should know the following, and there would be a notification that Mr. Hoover notified, et cetera. He called me once when there wasn't enough time factor for him to send a letter to me. He said, you are doing something at such and such an hour, you should know that this man is a homosexual, or so on and so on. And it may have been useful to change the course in a hurry. But it is formalized in the Bureau. When Mr. Hoover intervened on those things, it was either a question of time or a question of emphasis. But the formal part goes on regardless, if a person, regardless of who he is, is involved, or is passed a document, or comes up in a telephone tap, or any number of things, there is a record on it.

Senator Mathias. In other words, you are saying what a political friend of mine once said, that you don't get news unless you make news?

Mr. Angleton. That is one way of looking at it.

Senator Mathias. That is all, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. Angleton. I want to commend you again on that question, because that fixes several things. Because if there is one thing I regret about leaving the Agency, it is the unresolved cases. And that is one of the biggest, because we know so much about that person when he was in India. And he was the most sophisticated, cultivated, high level intelligence person.

Senator Baker. What would you do, Mr. Angleton, to try to rehabilitate the Agency in particular in counterintelligence capability, since you feel that it is deteriorating, what things in particular would you do?

Mr. Angleton. My feeling is that the Agency has to go through the purgatory that -- these fires that no man would put out -- and therefore let it be shocking or whatever. And let all the political repercussions take place, and if you go to purgatory, my view is, the bigger the fires, the better. So my view is, let it all come out. And let people take the consequences. I am not a believer that an agency can have two fathers. And I don't believe in inferiors reporting on their superiors by directive. And I don't believe that the Agency below the Director has to be responsive to two authorities.

Senator Baker. What two authorities?

Mr. Angleton. I mean the Congress and the Executive. In other words, if Colby is asked, what do you know about Chile, my view is that on Chile would you please ask the White House. And that is what I am trying to get at, at least so then they can come back with Colby after the Executive part has told Colby what it might be. But to throw the burden on the Director to respond to a question on Chile, gives him -- he is always in that dual position. And something doesn't seem to work that way. And the lower you go in the Agency, even to my level, to be responsive to more than one authority is chaos.

And I am not making any puns.

Senator Baker. To be responsible to the Congress and to the

Mr. Angleton. The word response is what disturbs me somewhat, because the secrets that we have just been discussing here are so germane to everything in this country relating to the world balance of power and what the Soviets will strike at, and what the role of detente is. That is what I am trying to get at. The Executive -- in other words, the intelligence community has never really had a day of peace in a way. When Hoover passed away, and Gray came aboard, everyone in the intelligence community believed, now we can normalize this situation. It has never been normal before. Mr. Hoover never attended an Agency meeting. Mr. Hoover never permitted one of his representatives to go beyond this jurisdiction question. And you cannot run a government that way, and you cannot run counterintelligence that way. So when Mr. Gray came to see Mr. Helms, and Helms called me in before him and said, what position should I take, and I said, he wants to come and normalize relations, and he wants to reestablish liaison. And he said, I wouldn't accept it from him, they are the ones who broke it off. Therefore tell him that when he has read your correspondence with Mr. Hoover, and reviewed all of that, if he feels that he is capable of handling it, that you will be prepared to sit down and discuss the question of liaison, because liaison is a tiny part of the question of penetration and double agents and all the rest of it.

And in fact that happened, and everybody thought, we had got a captain that didn't make admiral aboard who will settle this. And then we will have his demise.

And then you had Mr. Ruckelshaus come in as acting Director. And then the Watergate and all of that. So there has never been a stabilizing factor in this Government as it relates to, not counterintelligence alone, but the intelligence community. And now I am strongly opposed to professionals being Directors.

I would say that a professional Director of the Agency doesn't work, he doesn't have a basis on the outside, or the perspective. And I think the Rockefeller Commission's observations were first rate in terms of the idea of two Deputy Directors who have to be confirmed and whatnot. And I think that no directorate should be expected to follow the nuts and bolts and at the same time handle all the duties of meeting and all the rest of it and try to keep an eye inside the business.

Senator Baker. What do you think of the Rockefeller Commission reports?

Mr. Angleton. I don't see anything wrong with it.

Mr. Angleton. I really don't know this area. So I am not competent to speak or go around seeing what will happen in Congress, just on the simple question of Chile and the leakages and the damage that is done to US posture abroad, how much of it does this take?

Senator Baker. It wouldn't take many. That is an argumentative thing.

Mr. Angleton. All the cases we are discussing, in the hands of the wrong people, and our files in the hands of the wrong people, would have very decisive political impact upon our elections. That is what I mean, to be very frank about it.

Senator Baker. How would that happen?

Mr. Angleton. There are all kinds of information which, if it falls into the wrong hands or should they want to use it for their own ulterior motives, would be absolutely damaging.

Senator Tower. In other words, this information could be used by politicians as a political football?

Mr. Angleton. Precisely. But a man who would do it damages --

Senator Mathias. Would you give an example?
