7/21/93 I talked to Vince on 7/19/93, at which time he complained of anorexia and insomnia. He had no GI symptoms. We discussed the possibility of taking Axid or Zantac to help with any ulcer symptoms as he was under a lot of stress. He was concerned about the criticism they were getting and the long hours he was working at the White House. He did feel that he had some mild depression. I started him on Desyrel, 50 mg. He was to start with one at bedtime and move up to three. He was to call me in about ten days to let me know how he was doing. I received word at about 10:20 p.m. on 7/20/93 that he had committed suicide.

Nominee lied, says NAACP

Effort to recruit blacks disputed

By Jerry Seper
THE WASHINGTON TIMES

AI

Two officials of the Little Rock chapter of the NAACP yesterday sharply disputed Associate Attorney General-designate Webster L. Hubbell's assurances to a Senate committee that he tried to find black members for his fashionable Arkansas country club and could not.

They urged President Clinton to withdraw the nomination.

"He's lying," Daniel Bowman, manager and chaplain of the Little Rock chapter, said of Mr. Hubbell's claims. "I've known Hubbell a long time, long enough to know that he's now saying whatever it takes to win Senate confirmation."

The White House, responding to calls by conservative organizations to pull back the Hubbell nomination, noted that the club had accepted its first black member.

Clinton administration officials said the president would continue to support Mr. Hubbell, 45, a longtime friend of the president.

Concern over the Hubbell comments also spread yesterday to other black officials, including Joe Johnson, campaign manager for Virginia Gov. L. Douglas Wilder's 1992 presidential bid. Mr. Johnson said no one in the black community would accept from anyone the kind of statements made by Mr. Hubbell "and still believe that person to be credible."

Mr. Hubbell's membership in the Country Club of Little Rock is thought to imperil his confirmation in the Senate. His situation parallels that of U.S. District Judge Kenneth Ryskamp two years ago. The Republican judge was rejected by Senate Judiciary Committee Democrats for the appeals court after it was learned he had been a member of a Florida golf club that excludes Jews and blacks.

"I would have been the first to know had he made any effort to bring blacks into that club. It just didn't happen," Mr. Bowman said of Mr. Hubbell.

Dale Charles, president of the Little Rock chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said he, too, was unaware Mr. Hubbell had tried to recruit black members. He said the

Mr. Bowman said country club members admitted Mr. Reed only as a response to negative criticism, saying it was "solely a political decision." He described Mr. Reed as the club's token black and charged that the Hubbell recruitment effort "began and ended" with Mr. Reed.

"They got themselves a black member now, and they can point to him all they want," Mr. Bowman said. "But let me tell you, one of us blacks at a time is all they can tolerate over there."

Mr. Reed did not return telephone calls to his office yesterday for comment.

It was the Little Rock club, considered the most fashionable in Arkansas, that embarrassed Mr. Clinton during the 1992 campaign. He apologized for playing golf at the facility, saying he had made a "mistake," and vowed never to play there again unless it were desegregated.

Mr. Hubbell's comment in the Judiciary questionnaire was "not a statement I would have expected from a person nominated to the Justice Department's No. 3 position."

If Mr. Hubbell was concerned about discrimination at the club, he had the option to resign, Mr. Johnson said.

"The bell has to have rung for Mr. Hubbell at some point," he said. "I'm not sure your continued presence in that situation is the best way to register your dissatisfaction."

Curt "Howard" Reed, a Little Rock economist, was accepted for consideration by the country club's admissions committee shortly after news reports about its racially exclusive policy. Later confirmed as a member, Mr. Reed's sponsors included William Bowen, Mr. Clinton's chief of staff when he was Arkansas governor.

find any. He said he personally led that effort.

But Mr. Bowman said he knew of no blacks in the Little Rock area who were asked between 1986 and mid-1992 to apply for memberships, or of any black organizations, including the NAACP, that was asked to assist in the search.

"We were aware, of course, that the Little Rock club excluded blacks, and it was something we discussed often," he said. "But we knew our talks were a waste of time because blacks were never going to be accepted."

"So I would have known if there was any effort by the club to recruit blacks or if anyone, Webb Hubbell included, had been in contact with anybody about the issue," Mr. Bowman said. "If he was making efforts to recruit blacks, it was a secret he was keeping to himself."

Mr. Johnson, who ran the Wilder of first lady Hillary Rodham Clinton who has served as White House liaison at the Justice Department since the inauguration, has declined requests by The Times for interviews.

Senate Judiciary Committee hearings for the Hubbell nomination are scheduled to begin next Tuesday. Several Republican members of the committee are expected to challenge the nomination based on his membership in the Little Rock club.

Mr. Hubbell, a golfing partner of Mr. Clinton's, was nominated last month. In Judiciary Committee questionnaires, he acknowledged his membership in the club and insisted that it has no policy against admitting nonwhites.

A former mayor of Little Rock who was briefly the chief justice of the Arkansas Supreme Court, Mr. Hubbell said in the questionnaire the club had tried since 1986 to recruit black members but could not club admitted one black member last year only after The Washington Times disclosed that Mr. Clinton, then a candidate for president, played golf there.

Mr. Clinton had an honorary club membership awarded to him as governor of Arkansas.

Mr. Charles said many blacks believe the Little Rock club excluded them by setting fees so high they could not afford to join and by treating a nominating process "that automatically guaranteed that blacks would not get in."

He challenged the sincerity of Mr. Hubbell's comments and the club's commitment to admit more than one black member.
